MIKEY DOWLING

COMEDIAN & AFTER DINNER SPEAKER

Mikey is a gifted 'mainstream' comedian.

In The Beginning - Mikey at school was always the class joker taking any opportunity to make people laugh. It was his sheer enthusiasm and dedication that helped establish him in his home town of Cambridge. With a notable feature in the 'Cambridge Evening News'- a periodical which had no hesitation in helping an aspiring local performer put a message across- "No joking, comic will work for free" the headline read. When Mikey was starting out he wanted it to be known that he would perform for free if the opportunity to support an established comedian comes his way. The overwhelming publicity brought about by this feature attracted the attention of a local Cable television company. Mikey savoured the chance to take part in a live one-to-one interview, which lead to regular appearances on BBC Radio Cambridgeshire. With all the publicity Mikey worked the local circuit of Clubs, Pubs, Charity Events and also various Private Functions.

Opportunities - Excited by the opportunities that lay ahead Mikey entered talent competitions with a couple of notable successes, one being the '2002 Naze Marine Great British Holiday Parks-Search for a Star'. After Breezing through the heat stages, Mikey returned weeks later for the grand final and to his delight; he was awarded 1st Place by a panel of judges made up of entertainment professionals.

Mikey performs all over the UK in all types of venues such as Holiday camps, Golf clubs, Rotary clubs, Social clubs etc performing stand up comedy and after dinner entertainment. Mikey is able to tailor his routine to suit any audiences. Mikey has worked in many theatres and has also supported Denise Nolan in South Shields.
